

Mellon Conference Travel Awards for Faculty

Application Deadline: No set date; requests should be submitted at least 30 days before travel date.

With funding received from Mellon endowment income, the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies offers travel awards of up to $500 for Duke faculty members who will present papers on Latin American/Caribbean topics at conferences or professional meetings. There is no set deadline for travel grant applications for professional meetings. Decisions will be made as applications are received. We have limited funds available for this purpose, and therefore we encourage you to plan ahead.

Applications should include:

- 1) a one page proposal stating funding needs, including cost of airfare and registration, and reference to any other funding sources available;
- 2) a copy of a letter approving panel participation at the professional meeting; and
- 3) a copy of your abstract.

Please submit your written request to Natalie Hartman at the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies, room 135 John Hope Franklin Center, Box 90254 or via email at njh@duke.edu.